Washington State Overdose Pilot

In 2016, there were 694 deaths from opioids in Washington State, 1,451 opioid overdose hospitalizations and 14,389 opioid substance abuse treatment admissions. Most of these deaths were from prescription opioids or from illicit drug use that started with prescription opioids. Addressing this epidemic requires innovative solutions and new approaches – like this system.

Opportunity: Southwest Washington physicians and other prescribers are invited to participate in Washington’s Overdose Notification System, a first-of-its-kind approach to helping address the opioid epidemic.

Who Can Participate: Physicians and other prescribers in Southwest Washington are invited to join the expanded pilot. Approximately 250 physicians in Olympic Peninsula recently participated in a successful initial pilot.

Steps to Participate:

Step 1

Step 2
Complete participating provider spreadsheet

Step 3
Send participant spreadsheet to Collective Medical

Please send participant spreadsheet to Collective Medical at support@collectivemedical.com

More Information: The Opioid Notification Program Pilot is a six-month pilot led by Collective Medical in collaboration with the Washington State Hospital Association, Washington State Medical Association and Washington State Department of Health.

Please direct any questions to support@collectivemedical.com